

Postgraduate Society Blog

We feature research carried out by DCU Postgraduates in all fields and all disciplines. We welcome pieces on your research or study topic in general or even pieces relevant to postgraduate life (for example, a short piece explaining what your research is, why you're doing it and why it's important to you/the wider world), or pieces on a specific aspect of your research. If you'd like to write something, we'd love to feature you on our blog.

Posts are aimed at a general audience and should be short and sweet. Our guide word limit is approximately 500 - 1000 words. Pieces must be in an editorial format before they will be published on the site. This can be tricky, but that's the point of the blog – learning to communicate your research to a general audience! Pieces should be written in an informal style, with jargon kept to a minimum, and a clear explanation of any academic terms used.

Email us at pgs@dcu.ie with any writing you'd like to submit, or any ideas you'd like to pitch, you can also submit articles on our website.
